

Newslines 23 June

Published: 23rd June 2017

Author: Robin Roberts

Online version: <http://www.wheelswithinwales.uk/newslines-23-june/>

Citroen teamed up with Yoga expert Michael James Wong, to create five poses suitable for motorists to utilise.

The idea was to provide relaxing and re-energising poses to help on long summer journeys at weekends or on holidays and they can be found on a dedicated Youtube channel.

Jaguar will next year expand its SUV line up, showing a new E-Pace AWD model based on the XE saloon in London on 13 July.

The car will cost from £28,500 and will use the saloon's diesel and petrol engines, and will be followed by the I-Pace EV SUV later in 2018.

The high performance arm of Volvo, Polestar, will in future be a sub-brand for the maker's electric models.

The Chinese owned company will take on the likes of BMW I-Series and Tesla and has the Far East in its sights where electric cars are rapidly gaining ground.

Jaguar Land Rover swept the board at the influential Automotive Interiors Expo Awards 2017 in Germany.

Land Rover head of design, Jerry McGovern, won Interior Designer of the Year, Jaguar I-PACE was awarded Concept Vehicle Interior Design title and Land Rover's Intelligent Seat Fold Tech took Production Vehicle Interior Innovation of the Year.

Ferrari will be feature brand at January's Autosport International show in the NEC.

wheels within wales putting you in the driving seat

www.wheelswithinwales.uk

The event runs from 11 - 14 January.

A tortoise was rescued by a motorist on the M48 bridge as it headed towards England.

BBC Wales reported the incident and said the animal was taken to a veterinary practice for safe keeping until its owner was found.